

MY DEAR: You Could Never Imagine the High Estate of the Lowly Button

Perhaps You Could Hand-Paint Yourself a Hat—And if You Are Going South Here Is a Hint for You.

My Dear—

The other afternoon in the showrooms of a leading milliner I heard a pretty young matron ask for "one of those delicious desserts of a hat." I waited in anxious expectation for what was to be brought forth and was entranced with the lace and tulle concoction which I beheld in the hands of the beaming salesperson. It was all brown, the crown formed of the tulle, which was finely plaited and drawn into a tiny ribbon bow at the top. The medium wide hem of tulle was overdressed, in diagonal folds with a fine, delicately patterned silk lace which dropped a couple of inches over the edge and at the right side lowered itself abruptly into a long scarf end. The soft transparency of it kept it from being obtrusive, while at the same time offering the effect of a refined and dainty indulgence. Black as well as brown hats of this character are very smart.

Another unusual hat that was displayed in the same shop was of white kid, hand-painted in violet and rose in a small all-over pattern. A violet grosgrain ribbon bound the edge of the narrow roll brim. I suppose this hat was intended for southern wear, but it would be nifty for present wear in the mornings with a simple jersey frock worn under a fur coat.

I am sure something I saw the other day in regard to embroidery will interest you, for it was so entirely new and individual. The frock was a very simple one-piece model of black velvet, which was embroidered from the bottom up almost to the hip line with—just guess—with buttons. Small and cone shaped, of gold thread, they were sewn quite close together to outline a bold pattern, with not a stitch of rose or anything else visible. The spire of variety is certainly never lost track of in this field of elaboration.

Another curious exploitation was gray kid cut into many tiny four-petalled pieces centred with a steel bead which held them each to the gray duvetyne frock, massed close together in a deep band about the lower edge.

For Southern wear I am quite in love with the silk sweater jackets made of a loosely woven silk rather than knitted. One very appealing model was of green, in that new shade between olive and apple, made with a wide Tuxedo collar and a very narrow belt.

Sport silks are again popular, but will be employed as much for entire frocks as for skirts. The frock has been worked down to such a simple principle that women find it more easy to don than the skirt and blouse and quite as easy too to make.

The woman who would like to lend a dash of dignified coquetry to her velvet evening gown could attach at the back of the left shoulder two long bead cords of uneven length, with bead tassels weighting them. The longest tassel should drop to the knee line at least.

Shoulder scarfs are again threatening popularity, and for the middle-aged woman or the thin girl they will be welcome. I saw a novel one for a matron, of black net embroidered in a sunbeam pattern, with black sequins at the back, while the front was in straight rows. For the debutante, a pretty one was of pale green and pink tulle, which was tied in one spot with turquoise blue ribbon an inch wide and small pink flowers beaded with ostrich feathers. A charming addition to any frock, this.

AMERICAN BANKS FOR MEXICO

Embassy Announces Seven Will Be Established in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The Mexican Embassy has made announcement that it has been advised that seven American banks will be established in Mexico City in the near future. The announcement continues: "American bankers, it is said, are ready to invest in Latin America not less than a billion dollars in banks and various industries, and Mexico has been chosen preferably for these investments. Administration officials said that while several American banks have been considering the establishment of branches in Mexico City, it is not believed that they will be established until formal recognition has been extended by the Mexican Government. As to the investment of a billion dollars in Latin America, officials say American banks have no such amount of money to invest anywhere at present.

His Succotash Plant Fails When the Corn Juice Pickles the Beans.

By Farmer Smith.

CEDAR GROVE, N. J., Dec. 31.—When Willie Dobbs of this town was shown a clipping from a Newark newspaper stating that Edmund Tyler of that city had made roses of three colors, red, white and pink, grow on the same bush, he said it was nothing compared to what the Cedar Grove Board of Poultry Trade accomplished. Said Dobbs: "We grafted beans on a corn stalk and made a succotash plant, but their corn juice fermented and pickled the beans in alcohol. We tried to graft pepper plants on pop corn stems, but their pepper made their corn pop too fast. Tyler ain't got nothin' on us."

Start the New Year with Confidence

The one factor that tends more than anything else to bring people closer together in their mutual dealings is Confidence.

Many cautious housewives have put off buying needed household goods and other merchandise until now—but

Now It's Time to Buy

True to our policy of over 93 years, wherever wholesalers' prices have declined, our concessions to our customers have immediately followed. Our November and December business, in number of Customers and Dollars, was the biggest in our history.

We are grateful for the generous expressions of confidence so often evinced by our loyal customers year after year, and we say to them now:

In our judgment, the prices at which WE will sell products of Cotton and Wool in Our Great January Sale are as low as will be reached for some time to come. HAVE CONFIDENCE! Buy Freely at Our January Sale Prices! IT'S TIME TO BUY!

Remember, our assortments are as famous as our values.

We buy for cash. The average daily number of salesmen who called at our sample rooms during the last six months, representing the best manufacturers and jobbers in the trade, eager to sell us their goods, was over 550.

We extend to all our friends the best of New Year's Greetings.

ONCE again the turn of the year is here, and one looks backward with a satisfaction of things accomplished, and forward with a desire to see bigger, better things materialize.

It seems appropriate at this time to express our appreciation for the large patronage we have enjoyed during 1920, and our hope that we may continue to serve even more successfully during 1921.

This past year of business readjustment has been a spur to greater activity. In the face of very trying obstacles, we have been stimulated and business has grown steadily. Old friends and new friends have generously favored us by their patronage. We look cheerfully forward to the coming year with a broader vision of progress and added opportunity for service.
